

JUDGE MAY REVERSE JURY IN STOKES CASE IF DEFENDANT LOSES

Decision May Be Reversed
Because of Tactics of the Prosecution.

Chicago, March 7.—Judge William Gemmill may set aside the verdict if the jury finds W. E. D. Stokes guilty of conspiring to defame his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, it appeared today. Meanwhile both sides were resting until Monday when the trial will resume.

Judge Gemmill indicated his anger at the methods used by the prosecution. Milton D. Smith, assistant attorney cross examining Stokes, had read before the jury postcards he charged Stokes had written to his wife and to his son, James, in Denver.

"Did you ever write a letter in red ink asking James to come to New York so he could meet his colored father?" Smith asked.

And Stokes replied:

"No."

Smith read half a dozen others of similar tenor and later asked:

"You had notorious women visit you at the Ansonia Hotel, didn't you?"

The defense objected and Judge Gemmill took the floor.

"I think Mr. Smith that your questions about the postal cards have destroyed this case," the judge said.

"It's wrong, wrong—wrong in any justice court in the United States. You can hang anybody on that kind of evidence."

"I believe there has already been reversible error in this case and I may set aside this verdict if the jury renders a verdict of guilty, if you persist in your present line of questioning. If you persist the case may fall."

"I won't go along with that line any further," said Smith.

"I don't think you will," replied the judge.

PHYSICIAN NAMED TO EXAMINE KESTER AFTER GUILTY PLEA

Ralph Kester, indicted on a charge of distributing obscene pictures, will be granted a physical examination to determine if he is a victim of tuberculosis before sentence is passed.

Judge R. L. Gowdy, in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning, appointed Dr. B. L. McClellan to examine Kester and make a report on his physical condition to the court, following Kester's plea of guilty to the indictment.

A Dayton physician, introduced by Kester as evidence in mitigation after the guilty plea testified Kester is suffering from tuberculosis. Sentence was deferred by the court until the report of the medical examiner is received and Kester was remanded to the County Jail.

Harold Stafford, this city, changed his former plea of not guilty to one of guilty, when arraigned on an indictment for stealing an automobile in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning. Sentence was deferred.

FOUND GUILTY BY PROBATE COURT JURY

Harley Ireland, Jamestown, was found guilty of a charge of driving a car while intoxicated by a jury in Probate Court Friday afternoon. Sentence was deferred for three days during which time Ireland will be given an opportunity to file a motion for a new trial.

Ireland was alleged to have smashed into an automobile driven by Mrs. Lena Martindale, Jamestown, in Jamestown nearly a month ago badly damaging the latter's machine.

FINED HEAVILY

Nelsonville, March 7.—Pete Goss, Athens, was fined $800 and his truck was confiscated here because an officer, noting Goss' car parked without the tail light lit, made an investigation and found a five-gallon jug of liquor in the machine. YOUTH ADMITS KILLING DOCTOR CONFESSES CRIME FOR WHICH MOTHER IS UNDER SENTENCE

Story Told to Aunt To Be Investigated By District Attorney

Los Angeles, Calif., March 7.—Harold "Sonny" Willis, 15 year old son of Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, under life sentence for the slaying of Dr. Benjamin B. Baldwin, confessed today he killed the physician.

According to the authorities the youth related his story to his aunt, Mrs. Virginia Nelson. District Attorney Keyes launched an investigation of the startling story told by the convicted murderer's son.

"Why did he tell? Oh, why didn't he keep silent?" Mrs. Willis sobbed in her cell.

"He is your son and would not let you make the great sacrifice of going to prison for life," one of the matrons answered Mrs. Willis.

Young Willis' confession stated that he killed the physician when he found him struggling with his mother on the floor of the Willis home.

The boy confessed:

"I had just come home from school. It was between half past three and four o'clock. As I came in I found Mamma on the floor struggling with Dr. Baldwin. She was fighting him off. When I got in she said, 'Sonny, come over and help me.' The doctor hit me and Mamma shouted 'Get the gun in the closet in the little handbag and give it to me.' I ran in the closet and got the gun, a .32 Remington that I have shot many times on hunting trips but instead of giving it to Mamma, I shot him myself."

INSURANCE UNION

Crabbe, Holds Ohio Laws
Do Not Permit Erection
Of Structure

Columbus, March 7.—Ohio laws do not prohibit the American Insurance Union from completing its proposed thirty-two story, $2,500,000 office building at Broad and Front Streets here, Attorney General Crabbe ruled today.

Challenging the right of the A. I. U. to build the skyscraper on the ground that Ohio laws barred an insurance company from investing its funds in any building larger than necessary to the conduct of its own business, the state insurance department had requested the attorney general for a ruling.

Crabbe stated that courts in other states ruled that similar construction did not violate laws regulating fraternal benefit associations. He also cited Ohio court decrees upholding construction of bank buildings by Ohio banking institutions.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Canton, O., March 7.—Harold McClellan, 26, who chief for the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, was stabbed in the neck at Wells Avenue and Fifth Street, shortly after midnight Friday and is now in Mercy Hospital where his condition is said to be critical. McClellan has made no statement and has not indicated whether he knew his assailant.

The wire chief had been working on some plans when he went to lunch and was on his way back to his automobile when the man ran out and stabbed him.

Wife Balks Queer Divorce Pact

MRS. RICHARD TOMPKINSON & MRS. BRADFORD WHITING

One of the queerest love tangles on record came to light in Chicago when Mrs. Bradford Whiting, wife of an immensely wealthy Chicago man, filed suit for separate maintenance, but refused to bring suit for divorce. It was alleged that at a breakfast, following a New Year's Eve party, Whiting, with his wife present, told Richard Tompkinson, his former friend, that he was in love with Mrs. Tompkinson and desired to marry her. Tompkinson is said to have permitted his wife to secure her divorce, but Mrs. Whiting declares she will not free her husband to marry the other woman.

TEST OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS IS SAID TO SUPPORT MITCHELL IDEA

Coast Line Gunners Fail to Make Hit in Practice at Aerial
Targets—Planes Wreck Water Target and Argument Is On.

Langley Field, Va., March 7.—Instead of settling acrimonious argument that has raged between the army air service and other branches of the service over the ability of anti-aircraft guns to protect American coast lines against possible air invasion, the tests conducted here have only added fuel to the flames.

From practically every point of view the demonstration of yesterday and last night, in which anti-aircraft guns fired at targets towed across the sky by slow moving bombers, gave supremacy for the air service.

Too hits were obtained by the three inch batteries in the day light tests, and at night the big search lights were unable to pick up the targets, thus supporting the contention of Brigadier General William Mitchell that ground fire is of little use against airplanes.

The one direct hit on any target was by an ordinary 30 calibre machine gun bullet. The new heavy three-inch and the regulation 5.00 machine guns, of the Fort Monro battery just a few miles from here, fired hundreds of rounds.

"Yes," chorused the artillery officers, "if we had been shooting at the bombers instead of small canvas targets the results would have been far different."

"That's so much bosh," retorted the airmen. "If you had shot at us all afternoon you'd never have hit us."

The personnel of the air field here were extremely jubilant today. They felt that they not only had squelched the anti-aircraft gunners, but navy critics as well.

LATE TRAIN SAVES LIFE OF MINISTER

Belgrade, March 7.—An attempt to assassinate the foreign minister of Bulgaria failed today because the train on which the official was riding enroute to Geneva was 30 minutes ahead of its schedule.

Ten men armed with rifles had stationed themselves along the railway track. The ambush was discovered by a military patrol. A battle followed, after which the would-be assassins escaped.

BOLD BANDITS ROB
TAXI OFFICIALS

New York, March 7.—Sixty chauffeurs of the E. Z. Taxicab Company were crowded in the company's office today while the manager, the cashier and the assistant cashier were counting $4,500 to pay the men's wages.

"Hold up your hands!" came the sharp command from two men. All hands went up. The two men took the $4,500 ran to the street, and sped away in a touring car.

ESCAPED CONVICT RETURNED TO JAIL

Wellsburg, W. Va., March 7.—Henry Greathouse, alleged forger, who escaped with three other prisoners from the jail here Thursday night was back in custody today. Deputies captured Greathouse at Scioto, Ohio, after he jumped from a moving freight train and suffered three deep wounds in his head. A letter he gave to a friend to mail to his sweetheart, resulted in his capture, deputies said.

DRILL FOR WATER

Elyria, March 7.—In the belief that there is plenty of water to warrant retention of the 1,000 acres as a site for the proposed state hospital near Grafton, Senator W. R. Comings, Representative E. C. Cotton and State Engineer Wade contracted with Bert Hultz to drill a well, for water, at a price of $150 per foot.

COOLIDGE FACES FIRST POLITICAL TEST IN FIGHT OVER CHARLES B. WARREN

Leaders Declare
Senate Poll Has
Insured Approval

Independents, Insurgents
And Democrats Fight
New Attorney General

Washington, March 7.—President Coolidge faced the first big political test of his new administration today, when the senate began formal consideration of the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit, as attorney general.

Although a bitter fight against Warren has been organized by the progressive factions of both parties, administration leaders predicted his confirmation. They declared a poll of the senate had shown enough votes from the ranks of administration senators and conservative Democrats to insure approval of the president's selection.

Independent Republicans, the insurgent bloc and liberal Democrats, however, were combined against the appointment. The position was led by Senators Borah, Republican, of Idaho; Walsh, Democrat of Montana; and Reed, Democrat of Missouri. They based their objections on Warren's connection with sugar interests and his activities as president of sugar companies, which were cited by the federal trade commission for alleged violation of anti-trust laws.

Prosecution of these cases, it was pointed out, would rest in Warren's hands when his nomination is confirmed.

The opening skirmish revolved around a move to force public consideration of the appointment. This was opposed by administration leaders and they induced the Republican caucus to reject a motion, providing for open sessions of the senate which was sponsored by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho. Gooding urged that the appointment be fought out on the floor of the senate in public sessions. He announced he would renew his motion before the senate.

The Warren appointment was the first of a number of controversial matters awaiting decision in the senate's special session. With the nomination disposed of, the administration will face another battle in obtaining confirmation by the senate of the ouster order issued against the LaFollette insurgent bloc. This also will be opposed by the independent Republican ranks and are not expected to make any prolonged fight.

In order, then, will come two more factional fights in the administrations program for ratification of the Fines and Lausanne treaties. There were indications today that the former would be ratified when a vote is reached by the senate while the latter probably will provoke so great a discussion as to cause postponement of a final decision until next December.

APPROPRIATION AND GASOLINE TAX BILLS
IN SENATE NEXT WEEK

Columbus, O., March 7.—Passage of $65,000,000 general appropriation bill in the house and decision in the senate on the bitterly contested Brown gasoline tax bill will mark the sessions of the state legislature next week.

Indications were multiplied today that the house and senate will be able to reach a peaceful compromise on the gas tax. It was expected by legislative leaders that the wishes of the house will be complied with when the senate votes on the measure, next Tuesday.

This was expected to mean that the two houses will agree on a 25 per cent cut in auto tag fees effective January 1, 1926, with division of receipts from the gas tax on a basis of 45 per cent to the state, 30 per cent to cities and 25 per cent to counties. The senate is expected to withdraw its demands for an additional cut of 25 per cent in these fees effective January 1, 1927.

Passage of the general appropriation bill in the house only awaits receipt of the bill from the printers. It was expected the house may take final action next Tuesday. The bill will suffer considerable cutting and revision in the senate. Fears were expressed today that the senate might require two weeks for its consideration of the measure and that this action might delay the final adjournment of the legislature, now scheduled for March 27.

CRITICIZE SPEECH

Marion, O., March 7.—Criticism today followed a speech made here by Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, son of former President Taft. Addressing a mixed audience at the Y. M. C. A. building, Taft was quoted as saying that the Y. M. C. A. flag ranked next to the greatest flag in the world—that of the church.

Many are taking exception to this assertion, claiming that "old Glory" ranks second to the Christian flag. During his speech, Taft lauded the Y. M. C. A. and its work for the young men of the world, but did not mention the American flag.

PRESIDENT NAMES
NEW AMBASSADOR

Washington, March 7.—President Coolidge has decided who he will appoint to succeed Alanson B. Houghton as U. S. ambassador to Germany. It was learned here today, the nomination is expected to be sent to the senate within the next few days.

Among those who have been prominently mentioned for the Berlin post is Charles D. Hilles, of New York City, Republican national committee man for New York.

WIFE REFUSES TO CONSENT TO RECONCILIATION BECAUSE OF HUMILIATION

Toledo, O., March 7.—Probability that the Owens divorce case may be settled out of court, was seen today after Mrs. Florence Owens, who is suing her husband, John Raymond Owens, Toledo, millionaire sportsman, informed Judge Austin that it would be impossible for her to "humiliate" herself by consenting to a reconciliation and rested her case. The court ordered a postponement of further hearings until March 16, in order to give attorneys a chance to effect a settlement out of court.

Owens is slated to appear in federal court here soon to answer to a "white slave" indictment, returned against him and Miss Irene Dalton, who is named as co-respondent in the divorce case.

COAL MINES IDLE
BECAUSE OF STRIKE

Halifax, N. S., March 7.—Twelve of the largest coal producing mines in Cape Breton were idle today because of a strike of 12,000 coal miners in the employ of the British Empire Steel Corporation. Maintenance men joined the walkout. Officials and clerks of office staffs, manned pumps and fired boilers to save the mine from destruction.

Word is being awaited from John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers of America, regarding the sanction of the walkout.

JORDAN PLUMBING HANDLES MANY OF LARGE CONTRACTS

The Jordan Plumbing business is one of the oldest shops handling that kind of work in the county, and many large contracts for plumbing and heating in the city and county have been handled by the local firm.

Harry R. Jordan took charge of the business at the time of the death of his father, Philip Jordan, several months ago. The late Mr. Jordan entered the plumbing business many years ago and after serving his apprenticeship opened a shop in Xenia and contracted for many big jobs.

Recent contracts handled by the firm was the Spring Valley High School, where all the plumbing and heating work was completed recently. The Jordan shop is now installing the plumbing and heating fixtures in the new residence of W. O. Jeffries and Harry M. Fudge, on North Galloway Street.

The plumbing fixtures in the new duplex residence being contracted by Mrs. J. O. McCormick, East Market St., are being installed by the Jordan workmen. The work at the new double residence of Ralph Heaton on South Detroit Street, is being handled by the firm, also.

The large contract for the plumbing and heating work in the new store of Jobe Brothers Company on East Main Street, was handled by the Jordan firm. The heating system recently installed in the Smith Advertising Company, East Main Street, was done by the firm.

oxy-acetylene torch and big pre-heating furnaces may fix the breaks.

With the acetylene torches, huge shafts or sheets of steel are cut to pieces as if they were a piece of cheese. To insure against finished castings, such as automobile engine blocks, becoming warped or twisted, while they are being welded, Mr. Minshall has installed two big pre-heating gas furnaces which heat the piece to be welded to an even heat all over.

In addition to the welding equipment, Mr. Minshall has one of the most complete machine shops, for repair work, in this section. With six lathes, four drill presses of different types, shaper, planes, and universal milling machine, this shop, with its expert help, is able to take care of most any kind of machine work. Experimental work is one of the specialties.

HORNICK ELECTRIC COMPANY WORKMEN BUSY ALL THE TIME

Workmen for the Hornick Electric Company, East Main Street, have been busy during the past few weeks, taking care of several large electrical contracts of the firm. The company has just completed installing electric plants in the Xenia Waterworks, The Hagar Strawboard and Paper Company, Cedarville and the Spring Valley High School.

Five workmen are busy daily handling the electric work of the firm. Electrical supplies of all kinds are handled at the store, and a complete line of radios and radio supplies is kept by the company.

Mr. Hornick has been in the electrical business in Xenia for five years and is experienced along his line. The company has catered to a large trade for radios since the popularity of that amusement fixture has increased. Superheterodynes, radiolas, and all the latest models of radios are kept in stock by the company, together with complete equipment.

The company is planning a campaign for the sale of the One-Minute Washer, which has recently been added to the stock of the store. The campaign will be staged after the first of April.

YOWLER MARKET FEATURES FRESH FISH IN VARIETY

Sea food fresh from beds in the Great Lakes and the Eastern Coast is the specialty of the Yowler Fish Market, West Main Street.

All kinds of fish and oysters handled by the Yowler Market are shipped direct from the beds, instead of the local store receiving its stock from city sea food shops.

Fish and oysters handled by the Yowler Market now are fresh caught. Mr. Yowler emphasizes although the fishing season is not yet thoroughly open.

In addition to sea food the Yowler Market also handles poultry, which can be had dressed or sold on foot. Deliveries are made by the market to all parts of the city. The present Lenten season has caused a noticeable increase in the patronage of the market. Mr. Yowler has been in the fish business in Xenia eleven years and offers his customers the advantage of fresh, clean sea food.

AUTO LIABILITY INSURANCE PAYS STATES RAY COX

"In the spring a young man's fancy," lightly turns to thoughts of automobiles. This does not only apply to the young man or to the young woman but to anyone with an income sufficient to afford a machine. And with the increased sales of automobiles, and the larger number of cars on the highways, the chances taken by motorists are increased. Result—the only safeguard, automobile liability insurance.

Ray Cox, agent for the Travelers' Life Insurance Company, is starting a campaign for selling automobile liability insurance and is confident his sales will be increased with the coming warm weather. "Only 5 per cent of owners of machines are insured against liability," Mr. Cox says.

During the four years he has been in Xenia, Mr. Cox has built up one of the largest agencies in the county. He handles all kinds of liability insurance, and attractive rates are offered by his company, one of the soundest insurance companies in existence.

Mr. Cox has offices in the Messenger Building, Second and Detroit Streets, and handles all the solicitation and other work connected with his business.

JEFFRIES AND FUDGE BOAST OF FINE WORKMANSHIP

The new store of Jobe Brothers Company, East Main Street, recently completed, which is a structure the city is proud of as an addition to its business section, was a sample of the contracting work of Jeffries and Fudge, well known firm of Xenia.

Jeffries and Fudge have been contractors for many large construction jobs in the county and Mr. Jeffries has been in the contracting business in Xenia for twenty-seven years. The firm handles all general contracting work, from constructing cement sidewalks to moving houses from one section to another. Every sideline of the contracting work is handled by the firm, which employs a corps of capable workmen to handle the jobs.

The Spring Valley High School, which was recently completed and is a valuable addition to the fine educational buildings of the county was partly the work of the Jeffries and Fudge firm, about $12,000 worth of the work on the building being done by the local company.

Between fifteen and twenty workmen are employed by the contractors during the entire year, and as high as thirty-five men were employed to take care of the large contracts handled by the company last summer.

BALDNER GARAGE PIONEER IN AUTO REPAIRING WORK

Do you remember when Fred Baldner piloted the first automobile seen in this section through the city and caused horses and some humans to suffer a slight panic?

That was about in the year 1900 and the majority of Xenians can look back and wonder at the marvelous growth of the horseless carriage to the present day, when automobiles have caused the faithful Dobbins to be practically extinct.

The first horseless carriage was driven to Chicago to the World's Fair a short time after it was completed and the machine was one of the many wonders visited by the sightseers. Other manufacturers quickly grasped the possibilities of the automobile and many millions have reaped harvests from its invention.

Mr. Baldner's genius that perfected the pioneer automobile is still being employed in the Baldner Garage, on North Whiteman Street, the oldest garage in this section. John G. Baldner is associated with his father in the garage, where all lines of automobile repair work and general service is a specialty.

The garage operates a large service car, and calls from all parts of the county are handled by the firm.

Mr. Baldner has perfected a number of mechanical devices that have revolutionized the automobile business and work at the Baldner Garage receives expert attention from the workmen employed there.

Fragrant spring blossoms formed attractive decorations about the rooms of the Bishop home, white fresas and pink primroses being the flowers used in carrying out the color scheme. The wedding ceremony took place before an improvised altar of palms and ferns and white Ascension lilies which was arranged in the hallway.

She carried a large shower bouquet of fresas and white sweet peas.

The single ring ceremony was read by Dr. Brown and immediately after a four-course wedding luncheon was served. The bride's table, which was laid for twelve, had as a centerpiece a tall silver filigree basket filled with white fresas and ferns. INSURGENT BLOC IS FORMALLY DRIVEN OUT BY OLD LINE MEN

Washington, March 7.—Over the protests of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho and other Republicans, a new fourth party was created in the senate today when the LaFollette insurgent bloc was formally driven out of the Republican party and assigned to committees as "independents." This ouster order was approved by the Republican caucus and submitted to the senate for confirmation.

At the same time, the Democrats proposed their new committee assignments in which no punishment was meted out to Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who bolted his party to run on the LaFollette third party ticket last November.

XENIA CHAPTER OF DELPHIAN SOCIETY IS ORGANIZED AT MEETING HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Xenia became affiliated with the National Delphian Society, Friday evening when the Xenia Delphian Chapter was organized in the Parish House.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Caroline Flickinger of Dalton, Mass., one of the national organizers of the Delphian Society. In an introductory talk Mrs. Flickinger explained that the Delphian Society is a national one and includes in its programs subjects offered in the curriculum of leading colleges and universities of the country. History, literature, philosophy, poetry, fiction, drama, art, ethics and music.

Not only is this list of subjects widely inclusive but the method of treatment has been carefully considered by men who have made life studies of the subjects. These men represent the colleges of Yale, Princeton, Vanderbilt, Chicago and Columbia Universities, Metropolitan Art Gallery and the Royal College of Organists, England.

Mrs. Flickinger said that Delphian is known to be the only nationally organized society following a uniform plan for the promotion of general culture, the aim being to democratize learning, establish creative thinking along all cultural lines, to awaken community interest in the true sense which means that education shall develop not higher critics but higher appreciative.

The Delphian Chapter programs are arranged to stimulate comment and discussion by every member thus giving everyone practical experience in self-expression instead of written papers.

FOUNDERS' DAY

The biggest event in recent years in the history of Wilberforce University, the oldest and largest institution for the education of the colored youth, and managed exclusively by men and women of the colored people, was held February 24 in celebrating what is known as "Founders' Day" in honor of its founder, Bishop Daniel A. Payne, who is 1856 purchased of the Methodist Episcopal Church a small tract of land and a few buildings used for the education of the children of slaves who came north from the southland.

In the early part of February, President Jones appointed a committee to make arrangements for the celebrating of this event. For the purpose of creating enthusiasm among the students and to raise funds, the student body was divided in two groups, "The Green and Gold," representing the colors of the school, led by Miss Tressie Clark, Prof. Chas. S. Smith, Nolan Shields and Rev. H. H. Summers, and the "Tawawa Group," led by Mrs. Anna M. Terry, Miss Lucinda Cook, and the teachers of the College Department.

Following the program, on Monday night, Prof. George T. Simpson of the department, Theory of Voice Culture, assisted by 150 students, rendered a musical comedy, entitled, "The Belles of Barcelona," and donated to the school the proceeds, amounting to $164.00.

Tuesday afternoon the speaker was Bishop R. C. Ransom, formerly the editor of the A. M. E. Review, an old alumnus of the university, delivered an address, giving a brief history of the school and what it stood for among the colored people in religious and educational lines.

Tuesday evening, under the direction of Miss Anna H. O. Williamson, a pageant, entitled, "From Dark to Dawn," was given. It consisted of beautiful tableaux and national Negro Anthems, illustrated with stereopticon slides giving views of the early history of the school up to the present time, also slides of the various departments.

Immediately after the pageant the excitement ran high among the students of the two groups as to the largest amount of funds raised for the school. The leaders handed to the President sealed envelopes giving their several amounts. The first amount announced coming from the "Tawawa Group" was $700.00, and from the "Green and Gold," $1,446.00. Since the closing of the exercises both groups have made additional contributions. The total amount reported Tuesday night was $2584.10.

Your Home of the Future!

Are you saving for it? Now that the wonderful Spring days have come and you see the many home building operations going on—are you not often prompted to stop before some well-nigh completed dwelling and say to your self "I wonder if the day will ever come when, I too, can own a home like that?" And, perhaps, you sigh and pass on believing such a possibility out of the question.

It is NOT! Quit wondering. Act! Make the most of what money you're earning now by practicing Thrift every day of the week. Talk the matter over with your wife and she'll be only too glad to help you in attaining that goal you're aiming for—TO OWN YOUR OWN HOME!

Such dollars and any others you can spare, are best placed in a Savings Account in this bank. Here they'll earn formal interest and, as time passes, it won't be long before you, too, can say to your friends—

A MAN OF SOUND JUDGMENT

ONLY in the years to come will the people of other nations come to recognize the fact that in the death of Frederick Ebert, first president of the German republic, a great man has been removed from the world. His ability and character were tested under the most trying and difficult conditions and found true. A man of very few words, so far as his public messages were concerned, his story is found in a record of sound judgment applied to the conditions as he found them and with a courage that held him firmly to his course. While the outside world knew very little of him, comparatively, it was forced to admit that only a man of great ability seemingly trained for just such an hour, could hold the helm of a nation changed suddenly by a revolution growing out of a great war from an autocratic form of government to that of a republic.

Ebert not only had the task of holding his countrymen together, but also of meeting world demands as the result of Germany's having been held responsible for the European conflict. He was, figuratively, "between two fires." He also had extremists in his own country, the monarchists and the communists, to add to his difficulties. Now, after six years of his leadership Germany is tranquil and back to work. It realizes that Ebert did the best he could under the circumstances. On the other hand the allied and associated nations, the victors over Germany, give Ebert much of the credit for making the last reparations plan a success. "It cannot be emphasized too much that only a man of the soundest statesmanship could have triumphed over the difficulties found by Ebert. Because he has not worked spectacularly, because his lot has been that of leading a people towards recovery from defeat instead of under conditions of victory, the romance of his career may not be brought out for some time. But the romance is there in abundance.

A Socialist Democrat, Ebert was always for liberal and progressive principals, but for holding to the tried methods in promoting them. Under his leadership the German republic has been launched with a soundness that has withstood both the monarchists and the radicals. To have been the first president of such a republic and to have held the post successfully for six years, assures the permanence of the name of Frederick Ebert in history to be written and handed down to posterity.

WOMEN WAGE EARNERS OF OHIO

ACCORDING to a recent report made by the Woman's bureau of the United States Department of Labor, Ohio ranks fifth among the states, both in respect to the number of women employed in gainful occupations and the number of women engaged as wage-earners in the industrial field.

Less encouraging, however, are the figures relative to the wages paid in Ohio. Of the 30,568 women, 18 years of age or over, employed in the 302 factories, stores and laundries included in the survey and located in 44 cities and towns in the state, the median earnings for a representative week were $13.80; that is, one-half of the women earned more and one half earned less than this sum. The best wages were paid in the factories manufacturing men's suits and coats since this group showed a median earning of $19.60. The women's suit and coat industry with a median slightly less than this, offered about as lucrative means of livelihood but employed fewer women. Department stores and specialty shops, which are large employers of women, showed that one half of the saleswomen earned less than $14.05 for their week's work. Establishments manufacturing rubber and electric products were among the better paying industries, whereas cordage mills, 5 and 10 cents stores and candy factories trailed the list with approximately two-fifths of the women employed in the three latter industries earning less than $10 a week.

One-fifth of the total number of women in all the industries failed to secure as much as $10 a week, partly due to lost time.

Although not in the foremost ranks Ohio stands well towards the front in the matter of progressive hour legislation with a 9-hour day and a 50-hour week as the legal maximum of working hours for women in industry. The figures show that a number of establishments were even more liberal than the law since they had voluntarily adopted the 8-hour week and in some instances had a 44-hour schedule. In fact three-tenths of the women had a working day of eight hours or less and about one-third had a 48-hour weekly maximum.

Taken from every angle considered Ohio seems to be a very good state for women workers.

EXPERIENCE

The things they teach in school are old.
From books they gather wisdom's lore;
And there the youthful minds are told
That two plus two are always four.

The rules of grammar fixed and set
The teachers tediously explain;
Something the little minds forget
And have to learn them all again.
In vain we talk, in vain we preach,
They come from school prepared to spell.

Their credits very bravely earned,
And we are proud to hear them tell
The sum of knowledge they have learned.

Yet life has lessons just as old
As those the children learn in school;
But youth must live to learn the rules.

Experience is bitter—stern,
Though all the books on all the shelves
Proclaim the truth that fire will burn.

The youth must try if for them-selves.
And watch them as they madly go
Forcing experience to teach

Your Frayed Rug: Many a rug has been saved by timely mending. If you have one that has started to fray at the edges, buttonhole the edge with thread which matches the rug as closely as possible. Or if you have one which has a small hole in the middle, do not fail to darn it at once. Large holes require a piece of fabric on the under side to reinforce the darning.

The Lost Caster: There is nothing more annoying than a missing caster. Now is the time to take one of the remaining ones to a store and match it. Often it is necessary to buy an entire new set.

The "born housekeeper" finds a deep satisfaction in spring housecleaning—not only because her house receives a thorough cleaning from top to bottom, but because it is given a fresh start as regards repairs.

Somewhat, the fact that one's home is spotless again, gives one the ambition to do those little tasks which one has "let slide" so long such as the following:

Removing Paint From Glass or Wood: How often we see paint splatterings on a window pane or on wood, which was accidentally spilled during the painting of some other object! Remove these spots as follows: Paint Stains on Glass, are taken off with either kerosene, turpentine, hot vinegar or a strong solution of washing soda. Paint Stains on Wood if old and dried, must be softened, remove with a commercial paint remover, then scraped off with a putty knife or rubbed off with rags; if new, however, they may be removed with kerosene or turpentine.

That Creaky Door (There is one in every home!) First try applying a few drops of oil to the squeaky hinges. If this is not successful, try tightening the screws; loose hinges are often the cause of doors creaking, fitting badly and not closing properly.

That "Trick" Bureau Drawer: Hardly a family is without one! The kind of drawer that has a sliding bottom, which unexpectedly slips back and lets its contents dangle through into the drawer below. To

Today's Talks

FLORIDA

I think of Florida as the thumb of the United States. And as the years accumulate the people of the United States are going to come to realize how important this thumb is.

I am vacationing in Florida now. I love it. Not all of it but much of it. It is destined to be the playground of half of the country and much of the world, for people are coming here from all parts of Europe as well.

I meet those who have not mean enough words to say about the state and those who have no words adequate to express their love of it. I like it because it spells opportunity and gives so much to health and openness of mind. I admire the courage of Flagler, Fisher and others who have made this state rise from its bleakness and shell rock.

Florida is in the making, and everything has its faults in such a state of transition. This space is too small in which to sing of the opportunities all Florida holds for men and women. Its hidden wealth is yet to be mined. But it has an unwritten motto: "Abandon all care who enter here."

The business man who comes here has plenty to attract his attention. And he is so far from home that he can actually rest and go back bigger and better, ready for larger tasks with a body refreshed and rebuilt from the sunshine and stimulation of the blue sea.

If I were asked to rename this state, or rather to give it a personality other than that which it has, I would refer to it as Dr. Florida! Florida doctors folks up—makes them well and strong through its marvelous climate.

I get inspiration from the increasing number of farms and groves that echo so much of peace and plenty as well as of contentment of mind.

The United States should be very proud of its "Thumb" for it is so necessary to its growth and happiness as a nation.

MISS LOUISE B. SHAFFER RESIGNS POST AS RED CROSS SECRETARY-LOGAN WOMAN NAMED

Miss Louise B. Shaffer, executive secretary of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, for the last four and one-half years, and for five and one-half years interested in Red Cross work, has resigned her position.

The board of directors, which has held Miss Shaffer's resignation since December 2, voted to accept the resignation at its meeting Friday afternoon, Mrs. Sara H. Roberson, Logan, was invited by the board to succeed Miss Shaffer when her resignation takes effect April 1.

The resignation, addressed to the Rev. W. H. Telford, chairman of the executive board, follows: "Having served the Red Cross in Greene County for the past five and one-half years, I am herewith tendering my resignation as executive secretary of your organization to be effective on April 1, as I believe this change to be for the best interests of the Red Cross. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the members of the executive board for the many kindnesses shown me, while I have been endeavoring to serve you. My heart, as you know, is with the Red Cross and I sincerely wish it success."

The board expressed regret at accepting the resignation, and members spoke in the highest terms of Miss Shaffer's service to the county, her devotion to the work, her untiring energy and her accomplishments in the good she has been able to do. The board passed this resolution: "That we accept the resignation of Miss Louise B. Shaffer with reluctance, recognizing the splendid work she has done for the Red Cross, but inasmuch as she desires to be released, we accede to her request."

Mrs. Roberson is at the present acting as executive secretary of the Hocking County Chapter, Red Cross, at Logan, under the direction of the National Red Cross. She is the daughter of a Methodist minister and has been in Red Cross work in Ohio and Kentucky for a number of years. She will come to Xenia highly recommended by the national organization and H. T. Reed, field representative, who travels Ohio territory. Mrs. Roberson expressed her willingness to take the Xenia post on a visit here early in February and will assume her position April 1.

The change will not affect the position of public health nurse, which will continue to be held by Miss Helen Evers. Routine business was transacted by the board during the rest of the meeting, including the reading of the reports of the secretary and the nurse for the last month.

The secretary of home service reported 114 calls at the office and fifty-eight calls outside the office. This included sixteen bonus claims for ex-soldiers and sixty-seven different families. Three special classes encouraged by the Red Cross are being held in the county, the report shows.

Red Cross Home Hygiene text books are being used at Beaver Creek and Caesarcreek High Schools in the home economic departments and Antioch College is conducting a life saving and first aid class using the Red Cross text book.

Several deserving families were helped during the month. The soldier work report showed families of three ex-soldiers were benefited, one receiving more than $800 besides hospitalization through the Red Cross.

The public health nurse reported 142 calls, with forty-nine new cases during the month and assisted Dr. R. H. Grube, county health commissioner, seven afternoons during the small pox epidemic, in vaccination clinics. A large number of children were visited in Cedarville Township in connection with the school inspection.

MARGARET LITTLE PRETTIEST GIRL IN ANTIOCH FRESHIES

Upper classmen have always decreed the color green for the freshmen and green was the predominating note in the decorations at the banquet of the freshman class at Antioch College Friday night, which found an excellent excuse for the color note in the approaching St. Patrick's Day.

Edward Beckwith was toastmaster and introduced the speaker, Professor John Lloyd Snook. Lyman Hayes and William Montgomery sang a duet.

The class filled its niches in the "Hall of Fame" with the following celebrities: Margaret Little, Xenia, prettiest girl; Dorothy Dutton, of Philadelphia, most popular girl; Henry Bond, of Cincinnati, handiwork and most popular man; John Harrison, of Brooklyn, choice for sophomore president and biggest bluffer; William Montgomery, the dude; Ena Hourwich of New York, the "dudeess," Minard Ronsaw, woman hater and Marial Marcellus, man hater.

MODISH MITZI—"Harsh Words No Argument," says Mitzi

By JAY V JAY

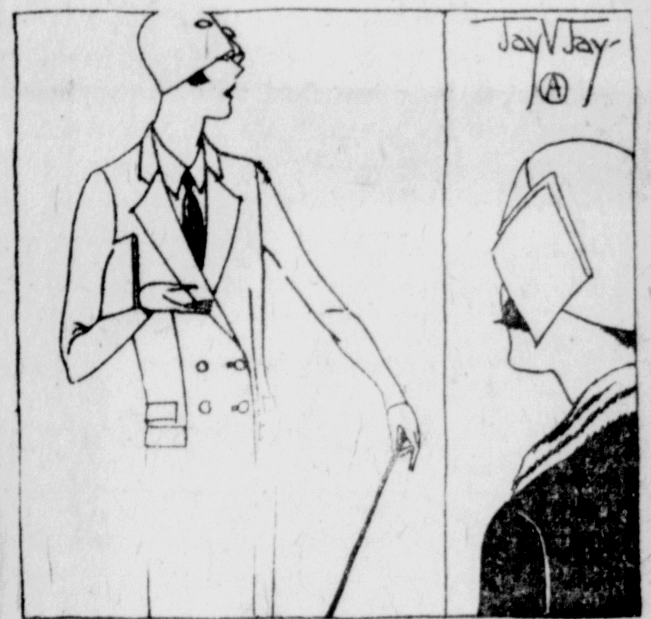

"And really, styles are so much newer here!" writes a friend from Paris. "Cat!" exclaims Mitzi, "she'll be back in two weeks and if she thinks she's going to be the only well dressed woman in New York she's wrong. 'America for Americans!' And Mitzi goes to see what can be done about it."

This jumper frock is nice and new—Mitzi meditates. The blouse is a lightweight jersey trimmed to match the skirt of silk broadcloth. This one in hydrangea blue will be just about right for the country weekend we're planning. We'll show her.

This suit is so much like the one Mitzi wears that she doesn't have to buy it. The style is very new, a figured silk frock with a faille coat that has rippling jabots flounces all down the front. "Let her come," says Mitzi, "from Paris or anywhere. So did this suit!"

"And maybe this style did originate in Paris," says Mitzi of a tailor's double-breasted tweed coat. "But there never was a French woman who could wear tailored clothes as an American woman can! Bought! 'And anyway,' Mitzi continues, 'a smart style is not smarter than the woman who wears it.'"

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narcotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough why not try it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

Talk about getting a warm letter, maybe this one won't make me keep quiet. It's from a good looking country girl who lives near Jamestown. Read it.

Jamestown, Ohio.
March 1, 1925.

Dear Brother Sauer:

Sitting here in the kitchen with the bread baking in my stocking feet, I thought I would take my pen in hand and pick my teeth with it.

I wish to tell you plainly what I think of the absurd, impossible light-minded collection of what is supposed to be wit that you are writing. I am surprised that Xenia's only newspaper will permit the publication of such rot. The very smallness of it turns the common pleas judge away and the punkness of it disgusts the ditch digger, the grave digger and the candle stick maker. As for me, I have cast it away and washed my hands of the uncanny novelty.

But you have helped others, so you might be able to help me. I am a beautiful farm girl with blue eyes and a red dress. I was in bed fifteen years with bunions on my toes. I weigh 230 pounds and am what is laughingly known as a stylish stout.

What I started to say is do you know of a cracking good farmer who would make me a home? I don't want one who will drink to me only with his eyes nor coffee. I don't drink coffee. I got tired of the spoon hitting me in the eye. If you hear of a man have him write me.

Lovingly, Abigail Smearcase.

QUITE THE THING

Stout women, leave your cares behind.
And do not stop to pout;
You're quite the thing
In Fashion's mind—
You are a stylish stout.

Abigail has started something that I fear I will not be able to finish. I have given her letter to Great Esteemed Orator Auld of the Hammer Club who promises that his splendid organization will see what it can do. Watch this column for further particulars.

SKATING

A man by the name of John Dew.
One day went out on a stool.
When he fell on the ice
And it cracked once or twice,
Said he: "I will shortly be through."

RADIO DESCRIPTION MAY SOLVE IDENTITY IN CEDARVILLE CASE

A search that has been carried on by relatives in the East for several months and doubt in the minds of local persons interested in the case was ended when M. C. Nagley, Cedarville funeral director, received an interesting message over his radio Thursday night.

Last October, a human derelict, who had tramped over the country, passed through Cedarville and asked to be allowed to spend the night in the jail there and was given lodging in a cell by the officials.

He was found dead in bed the next morning when jail attendants went to arouse him. A search of the dead man's clothing gave little clue of his family or home, but it was thought by officials that his name was Edward Keenon.

A pocketbook in his suit gave a Cleveland address and contained a picture of a young woman, Dr. R. L. Haines, county coroner, wrote to the chief of police at Cleveland and officials there investigated and found that the man had left that city a year before and his further wanderings were unknown. It was believed the man had relatives in Boston, Mass., and officials were notified of the search there and the press carried stories to find Keenon's relatives.

Nothing further was learned until Mr. Nagley heard a description of the dead man broadcast from Springfield, Mass., Thursday night. A daughter of the man had been searching more than a year for her father and had resorted to radio to learn his whereabouts. The description over the radio told of the pocketbook containing the picture, which is held by Dr. Haines.

An effort will be made to reach the relatives in Springfield, Mass., to tell them of Keenon's death and his burial in Cedarville Cemetery.

FIREMEN WILL GIVE BENEFIT MOVIE TO GET UNIFORM FUND

A benefit picture show, to provide a fund to purchase uniforms for members of the Xenia Fire Department, will be given at the Orphium Theatre, April 16 and 17, matinee and evening.

The feature picture entitled "The Code of the Wilderness" adapted from Charles Alden Seltzer's popular novel of ranch life, it a seven reel Vitaphone production with John Bowers, Alice Calhoun, Alan Hale, and Otis Harlan, in the starring roles.

Tickets went on sale Friday and may be obtained at the department or from any fireman.

A matinee will be given each afternoon for the school children alone, who may purchase tickets for 10 cents. Two shows will be given each evening. Admission price at night is 25 cents.

Firemen have not been equipped with regular uniforms for years, since the city makes no provision for their purchase, and it is hoped to raise sufficient funds to purchase the regulation dress of blue.

DR. WELLS TECHENOR SPEAKS TO DOCTORS

Dr. Wells Techenor, Columbus, former president of the State Medical Association, addressed the Greene County Medical Society, at the regular monthly meeting at the office of the county commissioner of health, in the Court House, Thursday morning.

Dr. Techenor is a specialist in proctology and his interesting talk was along this line. He was the only speaker at the meeting, which was followed by luncheon at the Goody Shoppe, Green Street.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

BEARS
TO

In determining whether or not a company can pay cash dividends out of surplus, it is important to distinguish between free and appropriated surplus.

The next time some salesman talks larger dividends to you on the strength of a large surplus, ask him whether it is free or appropriated surplus, and see what he says.

Since appropriated surplus is simply part of surplus which has been set aside for a particular use, dividends cannot be paid out of it usually.

Free surplus, on the other hand, remains in the form of cash or something easily converted into cash, and may be used for many purposes, including dividends.

Earnings, and sometimes capital profits, are free surplus until they are spent for something definite. However, it is evident that when the earnings are spent for a new factory, they become appropriated surplus, because they are no longer free to buy anything else or to pay dividends.

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND'S husband, Jim, has gone to Honolulu shortly after their marriage, following a misunderstanding with his wife, and has taken his mother with him, leaving Cynthia to face the disapproval of her sister-in-law, LOUELLA, and all her world.

CYNTHIA turns to CECILE MALCOLM, leader of the town's gayest set, and accepts the friendship of NOEL GARDNER, the town's black sheep, going with them to a mid-winter house party at Cecile's mountain cabin.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT
XXXI-PLAYING WITH DANGER

CYNTHIA and Noel Gardner made their way slowly up a slight rise of ground near the cabin; then, as they came to a trodden wine-like air, over which a crust had hardened, they went faster. Their skirts made almost no sound, and save for the occasional rustling of a branch there was absolute quiet all about them.

VIOLET DARE

It was a night of white magic; the moonlight was so bright that an air of unreality lay over everything. Cynthia, as she went skimming down a long, easy hill, felt as if she were flying through the wine-like air.

"Oh, isn't this perfect?" she cried to Noel, when they had reached the bottom and started up the next hill. "I've never known anything like it."

"Neither have I," he replied, and his deep voice made the words doubly significant, as she knew he had meant them to be. Her body she tried to find a safer subject. She did not want Noel to renew his love-making.

"It's so beautiful here; these pine woods are magnificent," she exclaimed. "I've often been in Canada for the winter sports, but never have I known anything more wonderful than this."

Determinedly she pinned the conversation to a discussion of the scenery, as they climbed the hill. When they had reached the top and paused a moment for breath he touched her arm lightly.

"Look— isn't that incredibly lovely?" he demanded, with a gesture toward the moonlit world that lay below them.

She knew that there were other cabins in the vicinity of Cecile's, but from that hill they could see no sign of human life; only the woods, with their beautiful evergreens, so heavy with snow that some of them were like white tents, and the long, unbroken sweep of snow that marked the long hill.

"I feel as if we could sail straight down this hill into Heaven," he said slowly. "I'd like to do that—to come a cropper at the end, and wind up my life right there; knowing that I'm with you is the only thing that means anything to me, Cynthia, and since you can't see your way clear to being with me always, I don't care about going on."

"Oh, Noel—don't!" she cried. "Surely I can't mean that much to you."

"But you do. Every other woman I've ever known has disappointed me bitterly. You're different from them all, I know that I can trust you as I could a man—and I worship you as if you were a goddess."

Tomorrow—Alone Together.

"I'm not, though—I'm just a woman," exclaimed Cynthia, taking refuge in flippancy. She felt that she could not trust herself. Noel had never appealed to her so strongly before as he had in that moment. She did not know how much was due to the magic of the night and how much to her feeling for him, but she was resolved not to find out. She did not want to care for Noel.

Turning abruptly, she started down the hill. It was very steep, and here and there slight hummocks showed where tree stumps or small bushes were concealed by the snow. Trees grew in scattered clumps on the incline, and at the bottom was a thickly wooded area, through which no path was visible.

"Better take it easy," Noel called, as she went dashing down the hill. "You can't be too sure of a hill like this."

Cynthia went skimming on, balancing perfectly, so well poised that she was hardly conscious of helping herself with the pole that she held lightly. On, on, so fast that she seemed to be sailing through the moonlit air instead of on the ground.

She could not help wishing that she could go on like that forever.

"Oh, isn't this perfect?" she cried.

She felt as if she were flying through a dream world. Noel was somewhere behind her. She hardly realized that he was there.

Faster and faster she went as the hill became steeper. She was coming into the wooded space now. Perhaps it would be better to slow down a bit, she told herself, returning to reality, as when she was going at such a rate it was a bit hard to steer sometimes. And the tress had such a way of bubbling up just when she didn't expect them.

A warning shout came from Noel; she could not understand what he said, but she knew that he was telling her to go slower.

She thrust out with her pointed stick, did everything she could to slacken her pace. She felt now as if some giant had thrown her through space, and nothing could stop her. Yet she was not afraid. After all, it didn't matter what happened. This was glorious!

And then, suddenly, Noel, who was close behind her, cried out and swerved sharply to one side. For Cynthia had somehow caught one ski in the underbrush, her body had swung sharply around and gone crashing into a tree stump. She hung there limply, like a rag doll tossed across a chair. With a heart-breaking cry Noel threw himself down beside her and gently lifted her to the ground.

TROUBLE IN TOBACCO GROWERS' BODY IS COMING TO HEAD NOW

Letters sent to a large number of members of the Miami Valley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, disclosed that efforts to change the rule of the organization and seeking a change in the by-laws that would permit the growers to withdraw voluntarily, are being made.

Members would be allowed to resign at will, if the effort is successful and the majority agree, it is pointed out. As the rule now reads, members are permitted to withdraw only by action of the board of directors. Contentions appear to center about the fact that although $1,084,000 was distributed to the growers last spring, when 50 per cent of the appraised valuation of the crops was advanced by the banks, no money has been distributed since.

Committees of the four most populous counties in the association, instigated the movement, and frankly urge a change in the by-laws of the association.

Fred W. Scheaffer, president and manager of the organization, Thursday, expressed astonishment at the movement which already has grown to alarming proportions.

JUDGE MAY REVERSE JURY IN STOKES CASE IF DEFENDANT LOSES

Decision May Be Reversed
Because of Tactics of the Prosecution.

Chicago, March 7.—Judge William Gemmill may set aside the verdict if the jury finds W. E. D. Stokes guilty of conspiring to defame his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, it appeared today. Meanwhile both sides were resting until Monday when the trial will resume.

Judge Gemmill indicated his anger at the methods used by the prosecution after Milton D. Smith, assistant attorney cross examining Stokes, had read before the jury postcards he charged Stokes had written to his wife and to his son, James, in Denver.

"Did you ever write a letter in red ink asking James to come to New York so he could meet his colored father?" Smith asked.

And Stokes replied: "No!"

Smith read half a dozen others of similar tenor and later asked: "You had notorious women visit you at the Ansonia Hotel, didn't you?"

The defense objected and Judge Gemmill took the floor.

"I think Mr. Smith that your questions about the postal cards have destroyed this case," the judge said.

"It's wrong, wrong—wrong in any justice court in the United States. You can hang anybody on that kind of evidence."

"I believe there has already been reversible error in this case and I may set aside the verdict if the jury renders a verdict of guilty, if you persist in your present line of questioning, if you persist the case may fall."

"I won't go along with that line any further," said Smith.

"I don't think you will," replied the judge.

PHYSICIAN NAMED TO EXAMINE KESTER AFTER GUILTY PLEA

Ralph Kester, indicted on a charge of distributing obscene pictures, was granted a physical examination to determine if he is a victim of tuberculosis before sentence is passed.

Judge R. L. Gowdy, in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning, appointed Dr. B. L. McClellan to examine Kester and make a report on his physical condition to the court, following Kester's plea of guilty to the indictment.

A Dayton physician, introduced by Kester as evidence in mitigation after the guilty plea testified Kester is suffering from tuberculosis. Sentence was deferred by the court until the report of the medical examiner is received and Kester was remanded to the County Jail.

YOUTH ADMITS KILLING DOCTOR

CONFESSES CRIME FOR WHICH MOTHER IS UNDER SENTENCE

Story Told to Aunt To Be Investigated By District Attorney

Los Angeles, Calif., March 7.—Harold "Sonny" Willis, 15 year old son of Mrs. Margaret B. Willis, under life sentence for the slaying of Dr. Benjamin B. Baldwin, confessed today he killed the physician.

According to the authorities the youth related his story to his aunt, Mrs. Virginia Nelson, District Attorney Keyes launched an investigation of the startling story told by the convicted murderer's son.

"Why did he tell? Oh, why didn't he keep silent?" Mrs. Willis sobbed in her jail cell.

"He is your son and would not let you make the great sacrifice of going to prison for life," one of the matrons answered Mrs. Willis.

Young Willis' confession stated that he killed the physician when he found him struggling with his mother on the floor of the Willis home.

The boy confessed: "I had just come home from school. It was between half past three and four o'clock. As I came in I found Mamma on the floor struggling with Dr. Baldwin. She was fighting him off. When I got in she said, 'Sonny, come over and help me.' The doctor hit me and Mamma shouted 'Get the gun in the closet in the little handbag and give it to me.' I ran in the closet and got the gun, a .32 Remington that I have shot many times on hunting trips but instead of giving it to Mamma, I shot him myself."

INSURANCE UNION MAY COMPLETE ITS BUILDING IS RULING

Crabbe Holds Ohio Laws
Do Not Permit Erection
Of Structure

Columbus, March 7.—Ohio laws do not prohibit the American Insurance Union from completing its proposed thirty-two story, $2,500,000 office building at Broad and Front Streets here, Attorney General Crabbe ruled today.

Challenging the right of the A. I. U. to build the skyscraper on the ground that Ohio laws barred an insurance company from investing its funds in any building larger than necessary to the conduct of its own business, the state insurance department had requested the attorney general for a ruling.

Crabbe stated that courts in other states ruled that similar construction did not violate laws regulating fraternal benefit associations. He also cited Ohio court decrees upholding construction of bank buildings by Ohio banking institutions.

MRS. RICHARD TOMPKINSON & MRS. BRADFORD WHITING

One of the queerest love tangles on record came to light in Chicago when Mrs. Bradford Whiting, wife of an immensely wealthy Chicago man, filed suit for separate maintenance, but refused to bring suit for divorce. It was alleged that at a breakfast, following a New Year's Eve party, Whiting, with his wife present, told Richard Tompkinson, his former friend, that he was in love with Mrs. Tompkinson and desired to marry her. Tompkinson is said to have permitted his wife to secure her divorce, but Mrs. Whiting declares she will not free her husband to marry the other woman.

TEST OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS IS SAID TO SUPPORT MITCHELL IDEA

Coast Line Gunners Fail to Make Hit in Practice at Aerial
Targets—Planes Wreck Water Target and Argument Is On.

Langley Field, Va., March 7.—Instead of settling acrimonious argument that has raged between the army air service and other branches of the service over the ability of anti-aircraft guns to protect American coast lines against possible air invasion, the tests conducted here today added fuel to the flames.

From practically every point of view the demonstration of yesterday and last night, in which anti-aircraft guns fired at targets towed across the sky by slow moving bombers, gave supremacy to the air service.

No hits were obtained by the three inch batteries in the day light tests, and at night the big search lights were unable to pick up the targets, thus supporting the contention of Brigadier General William Mitchell that ground fire is of little use against airplanes.

The one direct hit on any target was by an ordinary .30 calibre machine gun bullet. The new heavy three-inch and the regulation .50 machine guns, of the Fort Monroe battery just a few miles from here, fired hundreds of rounds.

"Yes," chorused the artillery officers, "if we had been shooting at the bombers instead of small canvas targets the results would have been far different."

"That's so much bosh," retorted the airmen. "If you had shot at us all afternoon you'd never have hit us." The personnel of the air field here was extremely jubilant today. They felt that they not only had squelched the anti-aircraft gunners, but navy critics as well.

LATE TRAIN SAVES LIFE OF MINISTER

Belgrade, March 7.—An attempt to assassinate the foreign minister of Bulgaria failed today because the train on which the official was riding enroute to Geneva was 30 minutes ahead of its schedule.

SOCIETY TONGUES ROLL OVER SCANDAL IN DENNISTOUN CASE

Effect of Evidence On Socially Prominent Creates Interest

London, March 7.—Society's whisperers speculated today on the social aftermath of the scandals loosed by the Dennistoun suit while two of the principals of the sharp court tilts of last week, sought rest until the case is resumed Tuesday.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun, who charged that her husband, Colonel Ian Dennistoun encouraged her to trade her affections for army preferment for himself, festered over the week end, while Sir Edward Marshall Hall, the brilliant barrister, who opposed her in the courtroom duel of wits, retreated from London almost in a state of exhaustion for a stay down country.

Although the next move in the case held much interest, society was chiefly interested today in the effect of the testimony on the social ratings of the many titled people mentioned. The king and queen, who have the strictest ideas of social conduct, have been known to erect barriers very quickly in royal circles for some who were extremely prominent before their conduct was questioned.

The next move of the defense was another question for society's speculation. The alphabet has been heavily taxed in designating the men concerning whom Mrs. Dennistoun has been questioned and the array of continental hotel managers, chambermaids and bell boys introduced in the closing session indicated that many witnesses will be called in an attempt to prove Mrs. Dennistoun was intimate with many men.

Mr. "F" and Mr. "W" have been two men mentioned by Sir Edward in his efforts to show that General "X" later identified as the late General Sir John Cawsons, was not the only man in Mrs. Dennistoun's life.

Mrs. Dennistoun said she lived under the general's protection while her husband's army rating benefitted through Sir John's influence.

"Mr. F," who Mrs. Dennistoun testified was waiting to marry her, was believed to be a close friend of the Earl of Carnarvon.

The defense also, will try to show, Sir Edward's preliminary questions indicated that Mrs. Dennistoun brought the suit to recover $6,000 from her husband with the real purpose of collecting from Dowager Duchess Countess Carrarvon, whom Colonel Dennistoun married after his wife divorced him.

Indications were multiplied today that the house and senate will be able to reach a peaceful compromise on the gas tax. It was expected by legislative leaders that the wishes of the house will be complied with when the senate votes on the measure next Tuesday.

This was expected to mean that the two houses will agree on a 25 per cent cut in auto tag fees effective January 1, 1926, with division of receipts from the gas tax on a basis of 45 per cent to the state, 30 per cent to cities and 25 per cent to counties. The senate is expected to withdraw its demand for an additional cut of 25 per cent in these fees effective January 1, 1927.

Passage of the general appropriation bill in the house only awaits receipt of the bill from the printers. It was expected the house may take final action next Tuesday. The bill will suffer considerable cutting and revision in the senate. Fears were expressed today that the senate might require two weeks for its consideration of the measure and that this action might delay the final adjournment of the legislature, now scheduled for March 27.

CRITICIZE SPEECH

Marion, O., March 7.—Criticism today followed a speech made here by Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, son of former President Taft. Addressing a mixed audience at the Y. M. C. A. building, Taft was quoted as saying that the Y. M. C. A. flag ranked next to the greatest flag in the world—that of the church.

Many are taking exceptions to this assertion, claiming that "old Glory" ranks second to the Christian flag. During his speech, Taft lauded the Y. M. C. A. and its work for the young men of the world, but did not mention the American flag.

PRESIDENT NAMES NEW AMBASSADOR

Washington, March 7.—President Coolidge has decided who he will appoint to succeed Alanson B. Houghton as U. S. ambassador to Germany. It was learned here today. The nomination is expected to be sent to the senate within the next few days.

The court ordered a postponement of further hearings until March 16, in order to give attorneys a chance to effect a settlement out of court.

Gas Tax Bill

Columbus, O., March 7.—Passage of $65,000,000 general appropriation bill in the house and decision in the senate on the bitterly contested Brown gasoline tax bill will mark the sessions of the state legislature next week.

Indications were multiplied today that the house and senate will be able to reach a peaceful compromise on the gas tax. It was expected by legislative leaders that the wishes of the house will be complied with when the senate votes on the measure next Tuesday.

This was expected to mean that the two houses will agree on a 25 per cent cut in auto tag fees effective January 1, 1926, with division of receipts from the gas tax on a basis of 45 per cent to the state, 30 per cent to cities and 25 per cent to counties. And Democrats Fight
New Attorney General

Washington, March 7.—President Coolidge faced the first big political test of his new administration today, when the senate began formal consideration of the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit, as attorney general.

Although a bitter fight against Warren has been organized by the progressive factions of both parties, administration leaders predicted his confirmation. They declared a poll of the senate had shown enough votes from the ranks of administration senators and conservative Democrats to insure approval of the president's selection.

Independent Republicans, the insurgent bloc and liberal Democrats, however, were combined against the appointment. The opposition was led by Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho; Walsh, Democrat of Montana; and Reed, Democrat of Missouri. They based their objections on Warren's connection with sugar interests and his activities as president of sugar companies, which were cited by the federal trade commission for alleged violation of anti-trust laws.

Prosecution of these cases, it was pointed out, would rest in Warren's hands when his nomination is confirmed.

The opening skirmish revolved around a move to force public consideration of the appointment. This was opposed by administration leaders and they induced the Republican caucus to reject a motion, providing for open sessions of the senate which was sponsored by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho. Gooding urged that the appointment be fought out on the floor of the senate in public sessions. He announced he would renew his motion before the senate.

The Warren appointment was the first of a number of controversial matters awaiting decision in the senate's special session. With the nomination disposed of, the administration will face another battle in obtaining confirmation by the senate of the ouster order issued against the LaFollette insurgent bloc. This also will be opposed by the independent Republican ranks and are not expected to make any prolonged fight.

In order, then, will come two more factional fights in the administrations program for ratification of the Isle of Pines and Lausanne treaties. There were indications today that the former would be ratified when a vote is reached by the senate while the latter probably will provoke so great a discussion as to cause postponement of a final decision until next December.

JORDAN PLUMBING HANDLES MANY OF LARGE CONTRACTS

The Jordan Plumbing business is one of the oldest shops handling that kind of work in the county, and many large contracts for plumbing and heating in the city and county have been handled by the local firm.

Harry R. Jordan took charge of the business at the time of the death of his father, Philip Jordan, several months ago. The late Mr. Jordan entered the plumbing business many years ago and after serving his apprenticeship opened a shop in Xenia and contracted for many big jobs.

Recent contracts handled by the firm was the Spring Valley High School, where all the plumbing and heating work was completed recently. The Jordan shop is now installing the plumbing and heating fixtures in the new residences of W. O. Jeffries and Harry M. Fudge, on North Galloway Street.

The plumbing fixtures in the new duplex residence being contracted by Mrs. J. O. McCormick, East Market St., are being installed by the Jordan workmen. The work at the new double residence of Ralph Heaton on South Detroit Street, is being handled by the firm, also.

The large contract for the plumbing and heating work in the new store of Jobe Brothers Company on East Main Street, was handled by the Jordan firm. The heating system recently installed in the Smith Advertising Company, East Main Street, was done by the firm.

DODDS COMPANY DISPLAY TIMELY FOR SPRING ORDERS

What man is there who is not interested in the approach of Spring? Who does not make plans to co-operate with Nature in her remarkable transition from the old to the new? The thought of the beautification of the home and lawn will soon be uppermost in the minds of thousands. Whole cities will be brightened and beautified by Nature and man working together.

And what about those other cities, the silent, sacred cities of the dead? These too will soon come to life. Spring will garnish the withered branches with leaves again; it will bring the verdant grasses and the nesting birds.

In co-operation with Nature man plans to perpetuate memory and beauty, in an everlasting manner, his spot in God's acre by placing a suitable memorial or marker at the resting places of loved ones.

A visit to the display rooms of The George Dodds and Sons Granite Company on West Main Street, will show the plans that are being made. Here every type of beautiful and enduring memorial is on exhibit. Hundreds of markers have already been engraved preparatory to being placed in the Spring.

It is certainly educational and helpful to anyone interested in monumental work to visit the Dodds Company display, where a selection can easily be made. After you see the workmen cutting the stone you will better understand why it takes time to complete work of this nature and the need of ordering promptly if you wish it placed by Memorial Day.

MINSHALL SHOP OFFERS EXPERT MACHINE WORK

Harley Minshall's Machine and Welding Shop, located on South Collier St., between Third Street and the Pennsylvania Railroad, is one of the most interesting industries in the city. There one may see castings and machine parts worth hundreds of dollars welded and reclaimed at a fraction of the cost of a new piece. No matter how large or how small the broken piece may be, or of what metal it may be made, Mr. Minshall, with his oxy-acetylene torch and big pre-heating furnaces may fix the breaks.

With the acetylene torches, huge shafts or sheets of steel are cut to pieces as if they were a piece of cheese. To insure against finished castings, such as automobile engine blocks, becoming warped or twisted, while they are being welded, Mr. Minshall has installed two big pre-heating gas furnaces which heat the piece to be welded to an even heat all over.

In addition to the welding equipment, Mr. Minshall has one of the most complete machine shops, for repair work, in this section. With six lathes, four drill presses of different types, shaper, planes, and universal milling machine, this shop, with its expert help, is able to take care of most any kind of machine work. Experimental work is one of the specialties.

HORNICK ELECTRIC COMPANY WORKMEN BUSY ALL THE TIME

Workmen for the Hornick Electric Company, East Main Street, have been busy during the past few weeks, taking care of several large electrical contracts of the firm. The company has just completed installing electric plants in the Xenia Waterworks, The Hagar Strawboard and Paper Company, Cedarville and the Spring Valley High School.

Five workmen are busy daily handling the electric work of the firm. Electrical supplies of all kinds are handled at the store, and a complete line of radios and radio supplies is kept by the company.

Mr. Hornick has been in the electrical business in Xenia for five years and is experienced along his line.

The company has catered to a large trade for radios since the popularity of that amusement fixture has increased. Superheterodynes, radiolas, and all the latest models of radios are kept in stock by the company, together with complete equipment.

The company is planning a campaign for the sale of the One-Minute Washer, which has recently been added to the stock of the store. The campaign will be staged after the first of April.

YOWLER MARKET FEATURES FRESH FISH IN VARIETY

Sea food fresh from beds in the Great Lakes and the Eastern Coast is the specialty of the Yowler Fish Market, West Main Street.

All kinds of fish and oysters handled by the Yowler Market are shipped direct from the beds, instead of the local store receiving its stock from city sea food shops.

Fish and oysters handled by the Yowler Market now are fresh caught. Mr. Yowler emphasizes although the fishing season is not yet thoroughly open.

In addition to sea food the Yowler Market also handles poultry, which can be had dressed or sold on foot.

Deliveries are made by the market to all parts of the city. The present Lenten season has caused a noticeable increase in the patronage of the market. Mr. Yowler has been in the fish business in Xenia eleven years and offers his customers the advantage of fresh, clean sea food.

AUTO LIABILITY INSURANCE PAYS STATES RAY COX

"In the spring a young man's fancy," lightly turns to thoughts of automobiles. This does not only apply to the young man or to the young woman but to anyone with an income sufficient to afford a machine.

And with the increased sales of automobiles, and the larger number of cars on the highways, the chances taken by motorists are increased. Result—the only safeguard, automobile liability insurance.

Ray Cox, agent for the Travelers' Life Insurance Company, is starting a campaign for selling automobile liability insurance and is confident his sales will be increased with the coming warm weather. "Only 5 per cent of owners of machines are insured against liability," Mr. Cox says.

During the four years he has been in Xenia, Mr. Cox has built up one of the largest agencies in the county. He handles all kinds of liability insurance, and attractive rates are offered by his company, one of the soundest insurance companies in existence.

Mr. Cox has offices in the Messenger Building, Second and Detroit Streets, and handles all the solicitation and other work connected with his business.

JEFFRIES AND FUDGE BOAST OF FINE WORKMANSHIP

The new store of Jobe Brothers Company, East Main Street, recently completed, which is a structure the city is proud of as an addition to its business section, was a sample of the contracting work of Jeffries and Fudge, well known firm of Xenia.

Jeffries and Fudge have been contractors for many large construction jobs in the country and Mr. Jeffries has been in the contracting business in Xenia for twenty-seven years. The firm handles all general contracting work, from constructing cement sidewalks to moving houses from one section to another. Every sideline of the contracting work is handled by the firm, which employs a corps of capable workmen to handle the jobs.

The Spring Valley High School, which was recently completed and is a valuable addition to the fine educational buildings of the county was partly the work of the Jeffries and Fudge firm, about $12,000 worth of the work on the building being done by the local company.

Between fifteen and twenty workmen are employed by the contractors during the entire year, and as high as thirty-five men were employed to take care of the large contracts handled by the company last summer.

BALDNER GARAGE PIONEER IN AUTO REPAIRING WORK

Do you remember when Fred Baldner plotted the first automobile seen in this section through the city and caused horses and some humans to suffer a slight panic?

That was about in the year 1900 and the majority of Xenians can look back and wonder at the marvelous growth of the horseless carriage to the present day, when automobiles have caused the faithful Dobbin to be practically extinct.

The first horseless carriage was driven to Chicago to the World's Fair a short time after it was completed and the machine was one of the many wonders visited by the sightseers. Other manufacturers quickly grasped the possibilities of the automobile and many millionaires have reaped harvests from its invention.

Mr. Baldner's genius that perfected the pioneer automobile is still being employed in the Baldner Garage, on North Whiteman Street, the oldest garage in this section. John C. Baldner is associated with his father in the garage where all lines of automobile repair work and general service is a specialty.

The garage operates a large service car, and calls from all parts of the county are handled by the firm.

Mr. Baldner has perfected a number of mechanical devices that have revolutionized the automobile business and work at the Baldner Garage receives expert attention from the workmen employed there.

XENIA CHAPTER OF DELPHIAN SOCIETY IS ORGANIZED AT MEETING HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Xenia became affiliated with the National Delphian Society, Friday evening when the Xenia Delphian Chapter was organized in the Parish House.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Caroline Flickinger of Dalton, Mass., one of the national organizers of the Delphian Society. In an introductory talk Mrs. Flickinger explained that the Delphian Society is a national one and includes in its programs subjects offered in the curriculum of leading colleges and universities of the country. History, literature, philosophy, poetry, fiction, drama, art, ethics and music.

Not only is this list of subjects widely inclusive but the method of treatment has been carefully considered by men who have made life studies of the subjects. These men represent the colleges of Yale, Princeton, Vanderbilt, Chicago and Columbia Universities, Metropolitan Art Gallery and the Royal College of Organists, England.

Mrs. Flickinger said that Delphian is known to be the only nationally organized society following a uniform plan for the promotion of general culture, the aim being to democratize learning, establish creative thinking along all cultural lines, to awaken community interest in the true sense which means that education shall develop not higher critics but higher appreciative.

The Delphian Chapter programs are arranged to stimulate comment and discussion by every member thus giving everyone practical experience in self-expression instead of written papers.

DANISH EDUCATION REVIEWED IN TALK AT TEACHERS' MEET

Realization of the importance of education by the people of Denmark marked the future growth and prosperity of that country, declared Sven V. Knudsen, member of the faculty of Antioch College, and former government education official of Denmark, at the morning session of the Greene County Teachers' Convention, Saturday, in the assembly room of the Court House.

The growth of education which has placed Denmark on the firm basis the country now holds, began when the Danish farmers were freed as serfs by their landlords in 1788, Professor Knudsen said.

Danish pupils are educated in three classes, in the children's schools, up to eleven years, in the middle schools, which corresponds to our high schools and in the high school, where a curriculum, combining a similar course to that offered by our high schools and universities, is offered.

The younger pupils are taught the "three R's" together with history, science, music and poetry. Every teacher is compelled to know how to play the violin and music takes up a large part of the training.

No tests are given the pupils and are given an opportunity to "dig" for the subject they are interested in, Professor Knudsen said.

The American school system is undergoing a great change as that of Denmark, declared Dr. O. G. Brim, of the Department of Rural Education, of the Ohio State University. The importance of teaching children, not books, is growing in the education system in this country, he said.

DRIVE TO FINANCE PARK PLANNED AT WORKERS' MEETING

An intensive campaign of the Xenia Recreation Association, to finance the proposed city park in the Dadds Addition, for which a ten acre tract has been donated by P. H. Flynn, will begin on an elaborate scale next week.

Plans for the drive were outlined at a luncheon meeting of workers at the Goody Shoppe, Friday. Improvised talks delivered at the meeting and committees were appointed to handle the drive to give Xenia its first civic park.

The association has set $10,000 as the goal of a one-day soliciting drive which will be preceded by a propaganda campaign to start Monday. Headquarters for the campaign will open Monday in the engineers' room of City Hall, Detroit and Market Streets, with an office manager in charge.

From this headquarters the campaign will be directed and workers obtained to carry on the solicitation. A financial committee appointed at Friday's meeting is composed of Mrs. Harry D. Smith, G. A. Willett, C. A. Kelbie, Karl R. Babb, Mrs. W. O. Custis, Mrs. M. L. Wolf, Dr. A. M. Patterson, Mrs. A. M. Patterson, J. K. Williamson, Mrs. C. A. Kelbie, E. H. Heathman, Otto Hornick, C. E. Arbogast, the Rev. W. H. Tilford, Frank McCurran, Henry Binder, A. Moser, C. S. Frazier, Mrs. E. P. Hamlin and Mrs. J. J. Stout. This committee will be augmented by the addition of other names.

A publicity committee composed of the Rev. W. H. Tilford, Dr. A. M. Patterson and Mrs. C. B. Mower, will direct a campaign of publicity designed to stir up sentiment in favor of the park project. A tentative design of the proposed development of the park site is on display in the window of the Citizens National Bank.

The tract on which the proposed park will be built, is centrally located, within two squares of the Court House in land topographically lending itself to the park features proposed in the original plans. Under the terms of the sale by which Mr. Flynn acquired the land as a donation to the park association, the park developments must be accomplished in part each year toward an ultimate conclusion of plans as outlined at the end of the three year period.

Complete plans call for construction of a lawn and tennis courts and the beautification of the rest of the park site by planting trees, establishing lawns and installing gravel walks.

CITY CREAMERY NOW IN NEW LOCATION

J. E. Waddle, proprietor of the City Creamery, 15 West Main Street, is announcing the opening of his store for business Saturday in its new location.

Mr. Waddle will run a food business in the front of the store and a creamery in the rear. A delicatessen stall may also be introduced in the near future, he announced.

The new owner purchased the lease on the store formerly occupied by the Henry Rich Tailor Shop and moved to his present location from Detroit and Third Streets.

POLICE DEPARTMENT UNIFORMS ARRIVE

New uniforms for members of the police department, be-decked with tinsel, brass buttons, and with regulation hats and double breasted coats, purchased with funds raised from the recent benefit picture show, have arrived. Police Chief M. E. Graham announced Friday.

The new outfits will not be worn at once but will be placed in cold storage until spring is formally ushered in, then a group picture will be taken of the force, according to Chief Graham.

An order has also been placed for new gold badges with the remainder of the money, Chief Graham said.

PLAYS GIVEN FOR LIBRARY BENEFIT

For the benefit of the Yellow Springs Public Library, the Antioch Players presented three one-act plays at the Opera House, in Yellow Springs, Friday night.

"The Wonder Hat," by Ben Hecht and Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, "The Lord's Prayer," by Francis Cope, and "The Medicine Show" by Stuart Walker, were the three plays produced. The premier performance was given at Antioch College before Christmas. Later the plays were repeated by request in Urbana.

Your Home of the Future!

Are you saving for it?

Now that the wonderful Spring days have come and you see the many home building operations going on—are you not often prompted to stop before some well-nigh completed dwelling and say to yourself "I wonder if the day will ever come when, I too, can own a home like that?" And, perhaps, you sigh and pass on believing such a possibility out of the question.

It is NOT! Quit wondering. Act! Make the most of what money you're earning now by practicing Thrift every day of the week. Talk the matter over with your wife and she'll be only too glad to help you in attaining that goal you're aiming for—TO OWN YOUR OWN HOME!

There are many things that perhaps you, like so many others, think it necessary to spend money for because you believe them essential to your comfort and welfare. But it's better to think twice before you spend your hard-earned dollars for some of them.

Such dollars and any others you can spare, are best placed in a Savings Account in this bank. Here they'll earn formal interest and, as time passes, it won't be long before you, too, can say to your friends—

"Now I'm Going to Build MY OWN HOME!"

Think it over. Then, call on us for any further information.

MISS LOUISE B. SHAFFER RESIGNS POST AS RED CROSS SECRETARY-LOGAN WOMAN NAMED

Miss Louise B. Shaffer, executive secretary of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, for the last four and one-half years, and for five and one-half years interested in Red Cross work, has resigned her position. The board of directors, which has held Miss Shaffer's resignation since December 2, voted to accept the resignation at its meeting Friday afternoon, Mrs. Sara H. Roberson, Logan, was invited by the board to succeed Miss Shaffer when her resignation takes effect April 1.

The resignation, addressed to the Rev. W. H. Tifford, chairman of the executive board, follows: "Having served the Red Cross in Greene County for the past five and one-half years, I am herewith tendering my resignation as executive secretary of your organization to be effective on April

1, as I believe this change to be for the best interests of the Red Cross. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the members of the executive board for the many kindnesses shown me, while I have been endeavoring to serve you. My heart, as you know, is with the Red Cross and I sincerely wish it success."

The board expressed regret at accepting the resignation, and members spoke in the highest terms of Miss Shaffer's service to the county, her devotion to the work, her untiring energy and her accomplishments in the good she has been able to do. The board passed this resolution: "That we accept the resignation of Miss Louise B. Shaffer with reluctance, recognizing the splendid work she has done for the Red Cross, but inasmuch as she desires to be released, we accede to her request."

Mrs. Roberson is at the present acting as executive secretary of the Hocking County Chapter, Red Cross, at Logan, under the direction of the National Red Cross. She is the daughter of a Methodist minister and has been in Red Cross work in Ohio and Kentucky for a number of years. She will come to Xenia highly recommended by the national organization and H. T. Several deserving families were helped during the month. The soldier work report showed families of three ex-soldiers were benefited, one receiving more than $800 besides hospitalization through the Red Cross. The public health nurse reported 142 calls, with forty-nine new cases during the month and assisted Dr. R. H. Grube, county health commissioner, seven afternoons during the small pox epidemic, in vaccination clinics. A large number of children were visited in Cedarville Township in connection with the school inspection.

MARGARET LITTLE PRETTIEST GIRL IN ANTIOCH FRESHIES

Upper classmen have always decreed the color green for the freshmen and green was the predominating note in the decorations at the banquet of the freshman class at Antioch College Friday night, which found an excellent excuse for the color note in the approaching St. Patrick's Day. Edward Beckwith was toastmaster and introduced the speaker, Professor John Lloyd Snook. Lyman Hayes and William Montgomery sang a duet. The class filled its niches in the "Hall of Fame" with the following celebrities: Margaret Little, Xenia, prettiest girl; Dorothy Dutton, of Philadelphia, most popular girl; Henry Bond, of Cincinnati, handsomest and most popular man; John Harrison, of Brooklyn, choice for sophomore president and biggest bluffer; William Montgomery, the dude; Ena Hourwich of New York, the "dudeess." Minard Renshaw, woman hater and Marial Marcellus, man hater.

MARGARET LITTLE PRETTIEST GIRL IN ANTIOCH FRESHIES

Upper classmen have always decreed the color green for the freshmen and green was the predominating note in the decorations at the banquet of the freshman class at Antioch College Friday night, which found an excellent excuse for the color note in the approaching St. Patrick's Day.

Edward Beckwith was toastmaster and introduced the speaker, Professor John Lloyd Snook. Lyman Hayes and William Montgomery sang a duet.

The class filled its niches in the "Hall of Fame" with the following celebrities: Margaret Little, Xenia, prettiest girl; Dorothy Dutton, of Philadelphia, most popular girl; Henry Bond, of Cincinnati, handsomest and most popular man; John Harrison, of Brooklyn, choice for sophomore president and biggest bluffer; William Montgomery, the dude; Ena Hourwich of New York, the "dudess," Minard Renshaw, woman hater, and Murial Marcellus, man hater.

MODISH MITZI—"Harsh Words No Argument," says Mitzi

By JAY V JAY

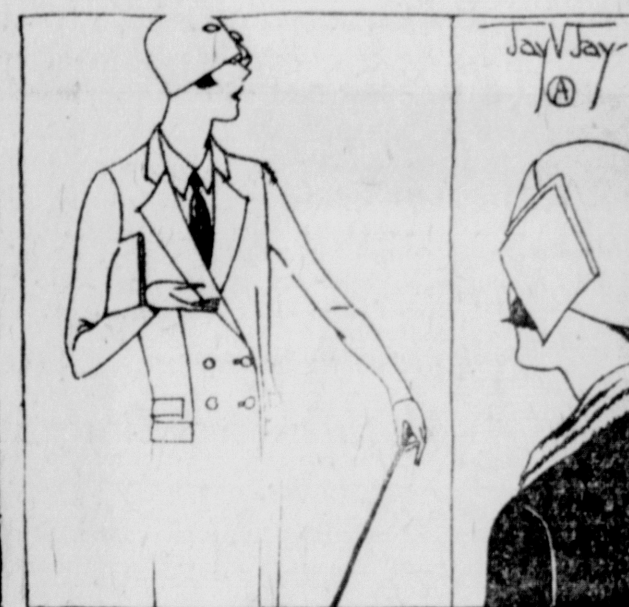

"And really, styles are so much newer here," writes a friend from Paris. "Cat!" exclaims Mitzi, "she'll be back in two weeks and if she thinks she's going to be the only well dressed woman in New York she's wrong. 'America for Americans!' And Mitzi goes to see what can be done about it."

This jumper frock is nice and new—Mitzi meditates. The blouse is a lightweight jersey trimmed to match the skirt of silk broadcloth. This one in hydrangea blue will be just about right for the country weekend we're planning. We'll show her.

This suit is so much like the one Mitzi wears that she doesn't have to buy it. The style is very new, a figured silk frock with a faille coat that has rippling jabots flounces all down the front. "Let her come," says Mitzi, "from Paris or anywhere. So did this suit!"

"And maybe this style did originate in Paris," says Mitzi of a tailor's double-breasted tweed coat. "But there never was a French woman who could wear tailored clothes as an American woman can! Bought! 'And anyway,' Mitzi continues, 'a smart style is not smarter than the woman who wears it.'"

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narcotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough why not use it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

No wonder these mail carriers at the general post office in New York register joy, for they had just received word that President Coolidge signed the postal pay and rate increase bill, which means $320 more a year to each of Uncle Sam's army of 200,000 faithful wearers of the gray.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

Talk about getting a warm letter, maybe this one won't make me keep quiet. It's from a good looking country girl who lives near Jamestown. Read it:

Jamestown, Ohio.
March 1, 1925.

Dear Brother Sauer:

Sitting here in the kitchen with the bread baking in my stocking feet, I thought I would take my pen in hand and pick my teeth with it.

I wish to tell you plainly what I think of the absurd, impossible light-minded collection of what is supposed to be wit that you are writing. I am surprised that Xenia's only newspaper will permit the publication of such rot. The very smallness of it turns the common pleas judge away and the punkness of it disgusts the ditch digger, the grave digger and the candle stick maker. As for me, I have cast it away and washed my hands of the uncanny novelty.

But you have helped others, so you might be able to help me. I am a beautiful farm girl with blue eyes and a red dress. I was in bed fifteen years with bunions on my toes. I weigh 230 pounds and am what is laughingly known as a stylish stout.

What I started to say is do you know of a cracking good farmer who would make me a home? I don't want one who will drink to me only with his eyes nor coffee. I don't drink coffee. I got tired of the spoon hitting me in the eye. If you hear of a many have him write me.

Lovingly, Abigail Smearcase.

QUITE THE THING

Stout women, leave your cares behind
And do not stop to pout;
You're quite the thing
In Fashion's mind—
You are a stylish stout.

Abigail has started something that I fear I will not be able to finish. I have given her letter to Great Esteemed Orator Auld of the Hammer Club who promises that his splendid organization will see what it can do. Watch this column for further particulars.

SKATING

A man by the name of John Doo,
One day went out on a stew,
When he fell on the ice
And it cracked open or twice,
Said he: "I will shortly be through."

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR PUZZLE ANSWER

Here's Yesterday's Puzzle Solution

RADIO DESCRIPTION MAY SOLVE IDENTITY IN CEDARVILLE CASE

A search that has been carried on by relatives in the East for several months and doubt in the minds of local persons interested in the case was ended when M. C. Nagley, Cedarville funeral director, received an interesting message over his radio Thursday night.

Last October, a human derelict, who had tramped over the country, passed through Cedarville and asked to be allowed to spend the night in the jail there and was given lodging in a cell by the officials.

He was found dead in bed the next morning when jail attendants went to arouse him. A search of the dead man's clothing gave little clue of his family or home, but it was thought by officials that his name was Edward Keenon.

A pocketbook in his suit gave a Cleveland address and contained a picture of a young woman, Dr. R. L. Haines, county coroner, wrote to the chief of police at Cleveland and officials there investigated and found that the man had left that city a year before and his further wanderings were unknown. It was believed the man had relatives in Boston, Mass., and officials were notified of the search there and the press tried stories to find Keenon's relatives.

Nothing further was learned until Mr. Nagley heard a description of the dead man broadcast from Springfield, Mass., Thursday night. A daughter of the man had been searching more than a year for her father and had resorted to radio to learn his whereabouts. The description over the radio told of the pocketbook containing the picture, which is held by Dr. Haines.

An effort will be made to reach the relatives in Springfield, Mass., to tell them of Keenon's death and his burial in Cedarville Cemetery.

FIREMEN WILL GIVE BENEFIT MOVIE TO GET UNIFORM FUND

A benefit picture show, to provide a fund to purchase uniforms for members of the Xenia Fire Department, will be given at the Orphium Theater, April 16 and 17, matinee and evening.

The feature picture entitled "The Code of the Wilderness" adapted from Charles Alden Seltzer's popular novel of ranch life, it is a seven reel Vitaphone production with John Bowers, Alice Calhoun, Alan Hale, and Otis Harlan, in the starring roles.

Tickets went on sale Friday and may be obtained at the department or from any fireman.

A matinee will be given each afternoon for the school children alone, who may purchase tickets for 10 cents. Two shows will be given each evening. Admission price at night is 25 cents.

Firemen have not been equipped with regular uniforms for years, since the city makes no provision for their purchase, and it is hoped to raise sufficient funds to purchase the regulation dress of blue.

BEARS
RELATION

In determining whether or not a company can pay cash dividends out of surplus, it is important to distinguish between free and appropriated surplus.

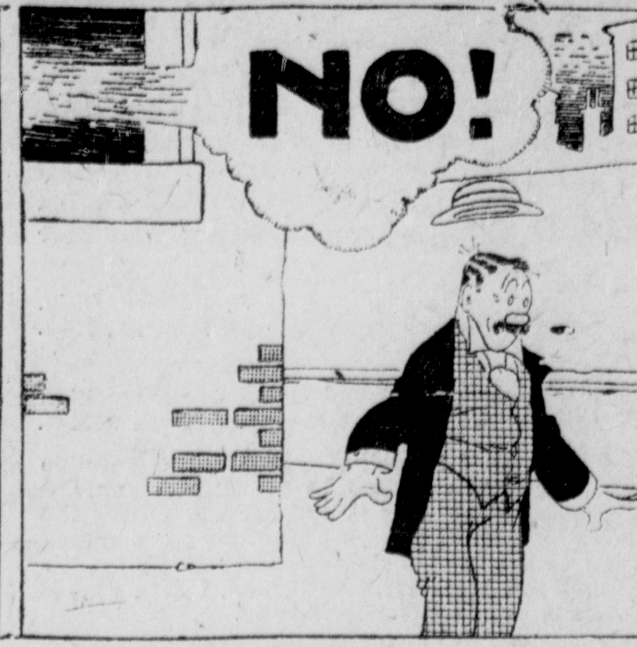

The next time some salesman talks larger dividends to you on the strength of a large surplus, ask him whether it is free or appropriated surplus, and see what he says.

Since appropriated surplus is simply part of surplus which has been set aside for a particular use, dividends cannot be paid out of it usually.

Free surplus, on the other hand, remains in the form of cash or something easily converted into cash, and may be used for many purposes, including dividends.

Earnings, and sometimes capital profits, are free surplus until they are spent for something definite. However, it is evident that when the earnings are spent for a new factory, they become appropriated surplus, because they are no longer free to buy anything else or to pay dividends.

BRINGING UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND'S husband, Jim, has gone to Honolulu shortly after their marriage. Following a misunderstanding with his wife, and has taken his mother with him, leaving Cynthia to face the disapproval of her sister-in-law.

LOUELLA, and all her world. Cynthia turns to CECILE MALCOLM, leader of the town's gayest set, and accepts the friendship of NOEL GARDNER, the town's black sheep, going with them to a mid-winter house party at Cecile's mountain cabin.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXI—PLAYING WITH DANGER

CYNTHIA and Noel Gardner made their way slowly up a slight rise of ground near the cabin; then, as they came to untrodden snow over which a crust had hardened, they went faster. Their skis made almost no sound, and save for the occasional rustling of a branch there was absolute quiet all about them.

It was night of white magic; the moonlight was so bright that an air of unreality lay over everything. Cynthia, as she went skimming down a long, easy hill, felt as if she were flying through the wine-like air.

"Oh, isn't this perfect?" she cried to Noel, when they had reached the bottom and started up the next hill. "I've never known anything like it."

"Neither have I," he replied, and his deep voice made the words doubly significant, as she knew he had meant them to be. Hurriedly she tried to find a safer subject. She did not want Noel to renew his love-making.

"It's so beautiful here; these pine woods are magnificent," she exclaimed. "I've often been in Canada for the winter sports, but never have I known anything more wonderful than this."

Determinedly she pinned the conversation to a discussion of the scenery, as they climbed the hill. When they had reached the top and paused a moment for breath he touched her arm lightly.

"Look— isn't that incredibly lovely?" he demanded, with a gesture toward the moonlit world that lay below them.

She knew that there were other cabins in the vicinity of Cecile's, but from that hill they could see no sign of human life; only the woods, with their beautiful evergreens, so heavy with snow that some of them were like white tents, and the long, unbroken sweep of snow that marked the long hill.

"I feel as if we could sail straight down this hill into Heaven," he said slowly. "I'd like to do that—to come a cropper at the end, and wind up my life right there; knowing that I'm with you is the only thing that means anything to me, Cynthia, and since you can't see your way clear to being with me always, I don't care about going on."

"Oh, Noel—don't!" she cried. "Surely I can't mean that much to you."

"But you do. Every other woman I've ever known has disappointed me bitterly. You're different from them all. I know that I can trust you as I could a man—and I worship you as if you were a goddess."

"I'm not, though—I'm just a woman," exclaimed Cynthia, taking refuge in flippancy. She felt that she could not trust herself. Noel had never appealed to her so strongly before as he had in that moment. She did not know how much was due to the magic of the night and how much to her feeling for him, but she was fateful not to find out. She did not want to care for Noel.

Turning abruptly, she started down the hill. It was very steep, and here and there slight hummocks showed where tree stumps or small bushes were concealed by the snow. Trees grew in scattered clumps on the incline, and at the bottom was a thickly wooded area, through which no path was visible.

"Better take it easy," Noel called, as she went dashing down the hill. "You can't be too sure of a hill like this."

Cynthia went skimming on, balancing perfectly, so well poised that she was hardly conscious of helping herself with the pole that she held lightly. On, on, so fast that she seemed to be sailing through the moonlight air instead of on the ground. She could not help wishing that she could go on like that forever.

"Oh, isn't this perfect?" she cried.

she felt as if she were flying through a dream world. Noel was somewhere behind her. She hardly realized that he was there.

Faster and faster she went as the hill became steeper. She was coming into the wooded space now. Perhaps it would be better to slow down a bit, she told herself, returning to reality, as when she was going at such a rate it was a bit hard to steer sometimes. And the trees had such a way of bobbing up just when she didn't expect them.

A warning shout came from Noel; she could not understand what he said, but she knew that he was telling her to go slower.

She thrust out with her pointed stick, did everything she could to slacken her pace. She felt now as if some giant had thrown her through space, and nothing could stop her. Yet she was not afraid. After all, it didn't matter what happened. This was glorious!

And then, suddenly, Noel, who was close behind her, cried out and swerved sharply to one side. For Cynthia had somehow caught one ski in the underbrush, her body had swung sharply around and gone crashing into a tree stump. She hung there limply, like a rag doll tossed across a chair. With a heart-breaking cry Noel threw himself down beside her and gently lifted her to the ground.

TROUBLE IN TOBACCO GROWERS' BODY IS COMING TO HEAD NOW

Letters sent to a large number of members of the Miami Valley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, disclosed that efforts to change the rule of the organization and seeking a change in the by-laws that would permit the growers to withdraw voluntarily, are being made.

Members would be allowed to resign at will, if the effort is successful and the majority agree, it is pointed out. As the rule now reads, members are permitted to withdraw only by action of the board of directors.

Contention appears to center about the fact that although $1,084,000 was distributed to the growers last spring, when 50 per cent of the appraised valuation of the crops was advanced by the banks, no money has been distributed since.

Committees of the four most populous counties in the association, instigated the movement, and frankly urge a change in the by-laws of the association.

Fred W. Scheaffer, president and manager of the organization, Thursday, expressed astonishment at the movement which already has grown to alarming proportions.
